

2nd International Trauma Informed Care online conference: Interventions to reduce core and comorbid trauma symptoms 9th November 2021

This event brings together expert clinicians and researchers in the field of complex trauma to present a series of oral papers exploring clinical approaches in the management of core symptoms of trauma, working with common comorbidities and wider physical health needs. A series of posters, supported with audio summaries, interactive polls throughout the day and an invited panel discussion will make this an engaging interactive event.
